SafeGuard Jewellery Valuations at Home

The SafeGuard home jewellery valuation service is only feasible if you have particularly valuable pieces or a large collection of jewellery. An Additional visit fee and travel expenses will be charged on top of the cost of the jewellery valuation service chosen.

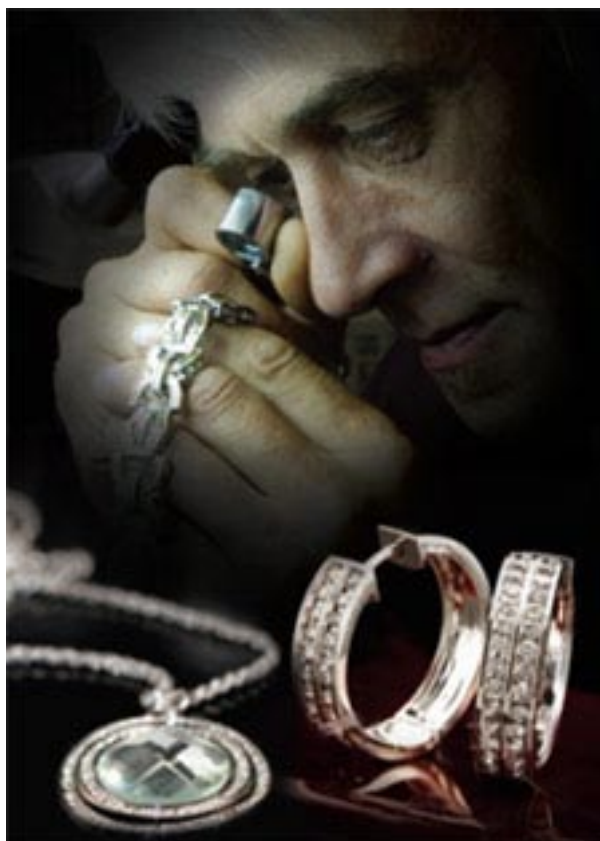

Your most treasured possessions valued by a leading expert in the privacy of your own home. SafeGuard is the UK's leading independent jewellery valuation service with over 20 years experience and expertise in the field. Now we are offering you a unique opportunity to have one of our valuation experts visit you in your own home to provide valuations of jewellery and other precious items you possess.

Following the visit you will receive a complete "Valuation for Insurance" document, containing the 'SafeMark', the description, the photograph and the value of each item.

All this information is then transferred to the secure SafeGuard database. Should any of your possessions be lost or stolen, the database will provide proof of ownership if they are later found or recovered.

In addition to providing the "valuation for insurance", our expert will discuss each item with you in detail and you are free to ask any questions you may have about your jewellery.

The valuers will also provide advice on whether cleaning or repair is required for any item. Each item you submit for valuation will be given a 'SafeMark' – a unique identity number and the valuer will also photograph and prepare a written description of each item in your collection.

If you request it, the unique 'SafeMark' can be marked, unobtrusively, on rings and other suitable items. However, on some pieces especially delicate or antique items this is not possible.

SafeGuard Personal Valuations mean greater security for your treasured possessions and provide the opportunity to discuss them privately and in detail with a leading expert.
