

'Where Genius and the Arts Preside' Matthew Boulton and the Soho Manufactory 1809–2009

Friday to Sunday, 3–5 July 2009

2009 marks the bicentenary of the death of the West Midlands entrepreneur Matthew Boulton (1728–1809). A major conference is being held to explore the historical significance of Boulton as a pioneering industrialist, natural philosopher and patron of the arts. The event is supported by the University of Birmingham, Birmingham City University and The Birmingham Assay Office.
